

2017 Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Art, Writing, & Multimedia Contest

Ramona Loy Whiteker
6th Grade Art Winner
Dominion Middle School, Columbus
Anita Simonis, Teacher
Dorothy Flanagan, Principal

My artwork is two girls making a heart half color half black and white. The bow is color to show that you can change and you don't have to be mean or racist. What always makes me sad is that people don't have things like me or you do. Though they have similar clothes, one does not have color. This art has two meanings to me. The landscape I did in the background is to show how beautiful the earth is and we can't ruin it. How I try to drive out hatred is to be kind and NEVER litter. Me and my mom only drive once a week I guess we're just lucky that we can walk everywhere.

Driving out Hate

PNC

