The story behind my drawing is that you know how people say stuff like, "I'm fine" or "I'm happy?" Well, sometimes they're not actually fine and they could be really depressed or upset inside. If you have a friend that you know is not "ok," then the best thing to do is find the reason they are upset and help it. Stand up for them if they are getting bullied or just try to be super nice and kind; little things help. Everyone's feelings matter. And why I chose an eye, it's what you "see" that other people are "fine." That's my story behind my drawing.
