The purpose of my piece is to display two different people, shown by their facial structures and hair types, who present a seen balance between them. I created a balance with their hair by using complimentary colours and a balance is created with their striped skin. The striped pattern is the same on both of the women and is diagonally balanced with the repetition of colours. Everyone has a balance, whether it is evident or not. I practice and encourage others to live and create a beloved community by simply focusing on being patient, tolerant, trying to understand one's view, and improving one's self and community. We need to become the energy we seek to attract.

Beloved Community
